1.2 The Shire of Irwin and Enabling Legislation

The Amangu, Wajarri and Widi Aboriginal peoples of the region witnessed the first permanent European settlement in the Victoria District and along the Irwin River in the 1850s. The settlement has grown to be the centre of a coastal community with an enviable lifestyle and approximately 3,700 residents. The twin towns of Dongara and Port Denison form the centre of a vibrant farming and fishing community equally valued and enjoyed by residents and visitors.

Known historically for its lobster fishing industry and broad acre farming the area has developed into a friendly coastal lifestyle community in close proximity to Geraldton with a growing tourism industry.

Located on the Batavia coast 360 km north of Perth, the Shire is a brilliant blend of coastal and rural, new and old mixed with a blend of lifestyle and employment opportunities.

Originally formed in 1871, the Irwin Roads Board stretched to the South Australian border and covered 89,000 square miles (230,509km<sup>2</sup>). The Shire currently covers 2,223 km<sup>2</sup> of land situated on the doorstep of the mid-west wildflower region. When the warmth of spring arrives (particularly after a wet winter) the landscape turns into a mass of colour attracting tourists from all over Australia.

The Shire is within the Irwin River catchment area with the twin town sites of Dongara and Port Denison located on either side of the river mouth. The landscape predominantly consists of coastal sands and dunes giving way to rolling broad acre cropping.

The blend of coastal and rural environments supports agricultural and fishing industries, on and offshore oil and gas industry and mineral sands industries. South Beach, a wide, white sand beach stretching to the horizon, provides a summer playground for residents and visitors alike.

Nestled on Arunine Bay are the historical twin towns of Dongara and Port Denison. The current Dongara town site was first surveyed in 1852 and named "Dhungarra" - a name given to the area by the original local inhabitants to indicate a "meeting place of seals".

The main street, Moreton Terrace, is lined with Moreton Bay fig trees planted in 1906 and are now a distinctive feature of the town.

The coastal area and port at the mouth of the Irwin River has had various names over the years from Port Irwin, Port Dongara and The Beach. The town site was established in 1866 before being officially named and gazetted in 1867 as Denison. Locally the town continued to be known as Port Denison and in 1973 the name was changed at the request of the Shire of Irwin to its current name.

Over time, the district developed a reputation as a wheat growing district and broad acre farming remains the districts' major economic output. To service the agricultural industry, along with residents and visitors to the district, the Shire currently maintains 241km of sealed roads and 314 km of unsealed roads.

Council Meetings are generally held on the fourth Tuesday of every month (except January) commencing at 6.00pm. Scheduled one week before the Ordinary Council Meetings are the Agenda Forums that take place at 5.00pm. Members of the public can attend both meetings. There is an opportunity to ask questions of the Council at Public Question Time during the Ordinary Council Meeting. In addition, the Council has a number of advisory committees which meet regularly and provide recommendations to Council on various matters.

The Shire of Irwin is constituted as a Local Authority under the Local Government Act 1995. The general function of a Local Government is to provide for the good government of people living and working within its district and includes legislative and executive powers and responsibilities.

Using its legislative powers, a Local Government may make local laws prescribing all matters that are required or permitted to be prescribed by a local law or are necessary or convenient to be so prescribed for it to perform any of its functions under the Local Government Act 1995.

The Local Government's executive powers involve administering its local laws and doing other things that are necessary or convenient to be done for, or in connection with, performing its functions under the Local Government Act 1995, including the provisions of services and facilities.

7 Freedom of Information

The Freedom of Information Act 1992 (FOI Act) provides a general right of access to documents held by a local government body or agency. It provides the public with the assurance that personal information held by the Shire is accurate, complete, and up to date.

The FOI Act is designed to make State and Local Government agencies more open and accountable by:

- Enabling the public to participate more effectively in the governing within the Shire; and
- Making the persons and bodies that are responsible for State and Local Government more accountable to the public.

The Shire gives effect to the FOI Act by:

- Creating a general right to access documents held by the Shire (subject to exemptions due to the sensitivity of the documents);
- Allowing access to the documents promptly and at the lowest reasonable cost;
- Assisting the public to ensure that personal information held by the Shire is accurate, complete, up to date, and not misleading;
